Dietz's Diamond Oil.

Which we warrant in every particular to be
Superior to any other Oil

Among the many advantages of this KEROSENE OIL over other oils are: First, that it is perfectly NON-EXPLOSIVE, and can be used with perfect safety in all kinds of LAMPS. Second, it is free from all objectionable and unpleasant smells, and burns with a clear white brilliant flame. We cordially solicit the public and FAMILIES to give this oil a trial, and once tried we feel confident it will gain a preference over all other Oil for economy as well as its superior burning qualities.

In order to protect ourselves against Counterfeits we have placed a brand on each can and case, which will be known as

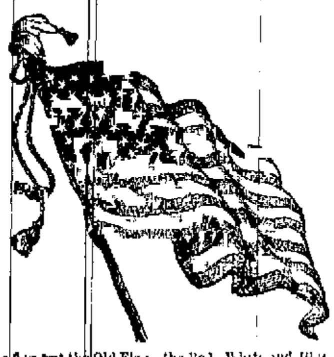
OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.



No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue,
With the stars of a Union unbroken and true!
Arise and defend it! ye sons of the brave,
Whose blood bought the banner your valor must save.

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 28, 1862.

Barbarisms of the Chivalry.

The chivalry of the South, when they ran away from Yorktown, filled the ground in places, with magazines and torpedoes. This is an additional feather in the cap of chivalry—one step higher than the poisoning of wells, the murdering of prisoners and the robbing of the graves of the dead for bones to be exhibited as trophies! Gen. McClellan has compelled secesh officers, prisoners, to dig up these missiles of destruction, and to remove those in the magazines, at their own risk, and without the assistance of their negroes. There is a good deal of grumbling among the chivalry at this employment, nevertheless, they are compelled to stand up to it.

MORE CHIVALRY.—When the federal men of war appeared before New Orleans, there were great rejoicings in a gathering of men, women and children. A gang of secession troops fired among them. The Mayor approved of the act on the ground that they were opposed to the cause of the South. That Mayor ought to enjoy a few feet of hemp.

OTHER EVIDENCES OF CHIVALRY.—Simonton, of the San Francisco Bulletin, in detailing events of the battle of Williamsburg, says that rebels bayoneted our wounded. Lieut. Bush, of the 73d New York, was seen to fall dead. Next day his body was found naked and bayoneted. All the wounded zouaves, with red shirts, were bayoneted. Capt. Ritz, 21st Regiment Sickles' Brigade, fell severely wounded. He had on, at the time, a bullet proof vest. The next day he was found, the vest removed, and bayonet wounds through the breast. Lieut. Nelson, of the same brigade, was wounded and taken prisoner. He was unable to walk, and was bayoneted twice by the chivalry who had him in charge, and left on the roadside. Our troops found him next day, just alive. A wounded officer had his finger cut off by one of the chivalry to get the ring upon it. The world is likely to get at a true understanding of the character of the Southern chivalry.

A letter from a high source at Washington, of April 24, says:

"If this contest is protracted another year, there is a measure more to be feared than either of these; it is the scheme of arming the negroes, and encouraging them to revolt. The atrocities which have been practiced by Southern soldiers, the engaging savages in their armies, and the intense hate exhibited by the Southern papers, is engendering a corresponding feeling in the North, and it will be stimulated and pressed in the North by men who are now hostile to it. A speedy termination of this war is the only thing which can save the South from utter ruin."

Increased Mail Service.

We find the following petition, addressed to the U. S. Postmaster General, in the Walla Walla Statesman of June 21st. The Statesman very properly evinces an indignant feeling in consequence of the recent letting of contract for only a semi-monthly mail from the Dalles to Walla Walla, when it should have been for at least a semi-weekly service. The Department at Washington has evidently not been properly informed relative to the necessity of an increased instead of diminished service of mail in that section, which is rapidly filling up with an industrious and intelligent population, and it is to be hoped that more frequent mail service will not only "be considered" but that it may be speedily adopted.

To the Honorable Postmaster General of the United States of America:

We the undersigned, residents of Washington Territory east of the Cascade mountains, do respectfully beg leave to represent that we are now supplied by a semi-monthly mail extending from the Dalles to Wallula, or Walla Walla, which has hitherto been delivered irregularly and uncertainly, and is totally insufficient for the wants of this region. We would respectfully present the following facts for your consideration:

The Walla Walla valley contains over 2,000 inhabitants. Shoshone, Nez Perce and Idaho counties contain 25,000 inhabitants, and include the gold region recently opened in Washington Territory; and we do urge upon the Postoffice Department the increase of the service between the Dalles and Wallula to a tri-weekly mail, and would further urge upon the Department the creation of the following new routes at as early a day as possible:

A route from Walla Walla to Lewiston, distance, 80 miles, a semi-weekly service. A stage line is now running tri-weekly between the two points.

A route from Lewiston to Oro Fino, in Shoshone county, 85 miles, a weekly service.

A route from Lewiston to Elk City, in Nez Perce county, 142 miles, a weekly service.

A route from Lewiston to Florence City, in Idaho county, 110 miles, a weekly service,

Jeff Davis' Coachman.

The New York Tribune publishes the following from William A. Jackson, late coachman of Jeff Davis, whose escape to McDowell's army corps has already been chronicled. He is of unmixed African descent, sprightly and intelligent, and his statements bear the impress of truth. He says:

HIS HEALTH AND HABITS.

The health of Jeff Davis was very bad last Fall, and at the first of January it began to get bad again. He has dyspepsia, and one of his eyes is bad. He has been expecting some time. He gets up between eight and nine o'clock, and has coffee or tea for breakfast. I have known his servant to go out into the country and get the sassafras to make it out of. They can't get tea.

A great many men are come to see him. They generally get in pretty easy; sometimes they can't see him for three or four days. Very often he don't let anybody see him except the Secretary of War. When I drive him out with Mrs. Davis and the children in fair weather he mostly goes horseback himself.

AND JOE JOHNSON.

I have seen General Johnston there. I heard General Johnston speaking about the retreat from Manassas, talking with Mrs. Davis. Mrs. Davis goes round every day to all the public offices to get the news. She gets more from the War Office than from Jeff Davis' office. General Lee and Colonel Joseph Davis don't tell her much. They say they don't know. She met General Joe Johnston, and the carriage stopped, and they stood talking.

Mrs. Jeff Davis—Was there much force in front of you at Manassas? Is there any up there now?

General Joe Johnston—I don't think there is a great force; most of them have gone to Yorktown.

Mrs. Jeff Davis—What do you think the prospects are of the battle at Yorktown?

General Joe Johnston—I don't like that Yorktown; I don't think we'll whip down there.

Mrs. Jeff Davis—How many troops have you down there?

General Joe Johnston—According to my estimation we have about 125,000 down there.

Mrs. Jeff Davis—Do you think you will be able to whip the Yankees soon?

General Joe Johnston—I don't know about it. [illegible] are very [illegible]. They generally get our plans, and we have a good many soldiers deserting.

Mrs. Jeff Davis—How came you to leave Manassas?

General Joe Johnston—If I had not left Manassas at the time I did, General McClellan would have had me surrounded in three days.

Mrs. Jeff Davis—When are you going to Yorktown?

General Joe Johnston—I am not very well just now, but shall go as soon as I am better. My head troubles me.

This conversation was after she had been to the War Office, and was coming back. They all admit General McClellan is an awful man, and General Joe Johnston thought deserters had given him their plans.

AND AN OFFICER.

She talks a good deal with the officers. I left there on Sunday. On Saturday she met one of the officers (I don't know his name) on Clay street.

Mrs. Jeff Davis—Is it true about New Orleans?

Officer—Yes, I have no reason to believe it is not so—the telegraph operator has left and I must believe it.

Mrs. Jeff Davis—If it is really so that New Orleans is taken, we are done. I am sure the Confederacy is playing out. Nobody knows how much we have lost but those who are connected with it.

Officer—It is very bad.

Mrs. Jeff Davis—All that I have is in that section. It will give them possession of the Mississippi river and of Louisiana, and cut us off from Arkansas and Texas, and if this is so, I have no further interest in the war.

THE SPIRITS OF THE DAVIS FAMILY.

Since the battle of Roanoke Island they have felt a good deal down. About the time I went there she commenced doubting about coming to Washington. She told a lady from Baltimore, five or six weeks after the battle of Manassas, who asked her when she expected to get to Washington, that she was afraid that as they didn't go after the battle, they would never get there. She used to talk a great deal about England and France helping them. A little after the fall of Fort Donelson they began to talk about having no hopes.

JEFF. DAVIS AND GENERAL COOPER.

Just a little before I left, I heard Jeff. Davis come to the stable, talking to General Cooper. He said he would do the best he could for the Confederacy, but he seemed very low spirited.

MRS. DAVIS WISHES SHE WAS IN EUROPE.

I heard Mrs. Davis say, about two or three weeks before I left, she wished she was in Europe. She was talking to some lady in the street.

THE DEATH OF A. SYDNEY JOHNSTON.

The day before Mrs. Davis heard that Gen. Johnston was killed, she heard that they had gained a great victory. Next day she heard that they had gained a victory but Gen. Johnston was killed. She said she did not feel that it was a victory. If he had to run risk enough to be killed she didn't feel that it was a victory. The next day they heard that they had not gained a victory, and she said it was no more than she expected.

JEFF. DAVIS ON WISE [illegible].

I never heard him say anything about Wise. He was sick before he came to Roanoke Island, and I used to drive by sometimes and ask how he was. I heard this from one of the servants who waited on the table. After [illegible] was taken the President seemed to be very much [illegible] about it, and he said Wise ought to have been shot and [illegible] hung, [illegible] the way of Generals who would fight.

JEFF. ON THE RETREAT FROM MANASSAS.

And I [illegible] at the time they retreated from Manassas he seemed to be very much dissatisfied about it. But when he went up he said he didn't know how it was, his Generals had got in the way of retreating, and he didn't know how to stop them. He said while he was studying plans for them to fight by, they retreated. They were all sure that everything was lost when Manassas was evacuated; they thought if the Yankees made them leave there they could make them leave anywhere.

MAGRUDER.

General Magruder is a big, red faced man, always in pretty good, lively spirits. Every time we heard of an attack at Yorktown he always wanted 10,000 or 15,000 men.

BEAUREGARD.

They have not said much about Beauregard since that battle. Mrs. Davis said once it was a hard thing about the way Beauregard [illegible] after Johnston was dead. I don't know what it was. Soon after the battle of Manassas they talked about making a flag for him, and said to be planted on Maryland soil, but I have not heard anything about it lately. Mrs. Davis said that Johnston was his best General.

POWDER RIVER.—The Walla Walla Statesman of June 21st says:

"Mr. [illegible], of Messrs. [illegible] & Co.'s Express, [illegible] from Powder River this week, [illegible] the reports that have heretofore been published [illegible] these mines [illegible] extent. A number of new claims have been opened on gulches heretofore untried, which pay about in proportion to those already reported, while new claims are being found every day in all the [illegible]."

HORSE THIEVES.—The Statesman further says that the citizens of Walla Walla county are much [illegible] by horse thieves. Several of these scoundrels have been arrested in this community of late, and other suspicious characters will probably meet a like fate soon. It is to be hoped, for the good of the country, that persons found guilty of this crime will be punished to the full extent of the law."

The people of Walla Walla county were to hold a mass convention last Saturday for the purpose of nominating legislative and county ticket.

How I was Cured of Gaming

A MIDNIGHT ADVENTURE

My friend was captain of one of the mail steamers plying between New Orleans and Mobile He spent some days with me not long since, and, among other adventures which had befallen him, he related the following

I had been engaged on board the steamer something over a year, and was then serving in the capacity of mate During the first few months I had been rather shy of New Orleans by gas light I had heard so many stories of robberies and murders and of strangers being attacked from mere wantonness that I preferred to keep myself as safe as possible Sometimes I spent the night at the hotel where the officers of the various steamers had assembled for a social time, and sometimes went to a theater At length however as I became acquainted with the city, the old timidity wore off, and I finally accompanied some of my brother officers to places where the more startling episodes of real life in the city ocurred. From the hotel we went to the theater, and from the theater we went to some of the most famous gambling houses

Suffer me, my friend, to inform you here that I am not a gamester I have played a little as I shall be obliged to confess, but the charm was broken, as you shall hear

On the third or fourth visit to the gambling house, one of my companions laughingly proposed that we should make a small venture at the faro table With a smile upon my countenance I threw down a quarter eagle The banker asked me if I bet on the queen. I told him "yes" I was then admonished to put my money fairly upon the card. I pushed the piece further on, and the confusion I exhibited must have informed the bystanders that I was slightly verdant touching the rules regulations and mysteries of the faro bank — The banker began to slide off the cards, and presently he drew in the piece of gold which I had ventured, and then threw down in its place an ivory cheque representing five dollars. I had won. I smiled at my luck, and when the cards were next shuffled, I placed my cheque back upon the queen I won again, and again I smiled, for the thought that I was gambling did not enter my mind It was sport—sport of a new and exciting kind. I bet upon the queen again, and again I won. Before the next play I calculated a little. It was not likely that the same card would win again, so I made my venture upon the ace. The queen lost and the ace won. At the end of an hour I had won $75 or $80, and then went with my companions to the hotel, where we spent another hour before repairing to our boats

After this I frequently accompanied my friends to the gaming houses, and I also made future ventures at the faro bank A love of the excitement grew upon me so strongly that more than once I ventured alone into a gambling house not far from our hotel. One evening four of us officers were at the St. Charles, and after supper the question was started as to how we should dispose of the next few hours. Two were for the theater, and two for the gaming house. How should we decide? As neither party seemed willing to give up, it was finally arranged that we should go just as our inclinations led us Two went to the theater, and two started for the gaming house I was one of the latter My companion was captain of an up-river boat, and before we set out he informed me that he must be on board by midnight, as he was to start early in the morning. This was all pleasant to me, as I had already made up my mind that I would be in my state-room before the hour he had mentioned. So off we went, over towards the third Municipality, nearly a mile and a half from our hotel, where we found the gaming house we had planned to visit We sat in the bar room a while and smoked a cigar, and then went into the hall We lounged about, and observed the progress of the different games, and finally stopped at a faro table I made another venture which was successful I made another venture and lost, another, and won. Then I bought $20 worth of cheques.

When I bought my cheques there were seven players beside myself at the table Two of them were steamboat captains, and four of them were either merchants, or gentlemen of that stamp. They may have been gamblers by profession—regular blacklegs—but that doesn't matter They appeared to be gentlemen, and certainly they behaved as such The seventh man at the table was a study, and had there not been an overbalance of apparent gentility in the company, I should not have stopped where he was He was evidently a boatman, and when I heard him speak, I made up my mind that he was a Hoosier. He had come down from Ohio with his flat boat, and sold his cargo and useless lumber, and was now on a bit of a "time." He was truly a tough looking customer He must have stood six feet and two or three inches high, with a frame like an ox His shoulders were broad and heavy his arms long and muscular, and his hands so long and hard that it was difficult for him to put down his cheques Of his face but little was to be seen, the lower part of it being covered by a thick, long beard of a grizzly color, while the upper part was shaded by the slouching of the broad rim of an old felt hat I could see his eyes, and they were black and keen enough They looked black when in the deepest shade, but when his head was turned so that the light struck upon the face, they seemed to have a metalic lustre, changing from steel to brass Presently those eyes were turned upon me with a threatening look the owner seeming to intimate that I had stared at him long enough At any rate, I took it as a hint, and went on with my play

My luck was changeful I won and then I lost Then I won once more and then I lost again Finally I touched the knave with a dozen cheques worth five dollars each and won The Hoosier had staked twelve cheques on the queen He lost, and the banker pushed the pile on the queen over to me I let the twenty four cheques remain where they were, and the Hoosier put twenty four up on the queen At this point my companion came and told me he must be going I was too much excited with the play to leave the table then and told him not to wait for me The queen lost—the knave won and again the banker passed to me the cheques which the Hoosier had lost.

Once more my companion asked me if I would go with him I told him I would not and he went away without me Forty-eight cheques were upon the knave in four stacks "Stranger, do you go them yet—all?"

Of all diseases the first great cause

Springs from neglect of Nature's laws

To the Afflicted!

Suffer not when a cure is guaranteed in all stages of secret disease—Self Abuse Nervous Debility, Syphilis in all its stages Strictures [illegible] Gravel, Diabetes, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder Mercurial Rheumatism Scrofula, Pains in the Bones and Ankles, diseases of the Lungs Throat Nose and Eyes Ulcers upon the Body or Limbs Cancers, Dropsy, Epileptic Fits, St. Vitus Dance—and all diseases arising from a derangement of the sexual organs—such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory Loss of Power General Weakness, Dimness of Vision with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes, Loss of Sight Wakefulness Dyspepsia Liver Disease Eruptions upon the Face, Pains in the Back and Head Female Irregularities and all improper discharges of both sexes It matters not from what cause the disease originated however long standing, or obstinate the case recovery is certain and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment, even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians and resisted all their means of cure The medicines [illegible] pleasant without odor [illegible] vegetable [illegible] sickness and free from mercury or balsam During fifteen years of practice in Europe, the Atlantic States and California I have rescued from the jaws of death many thousands who in the last stages of the above mentioned diseases had been given up to die by their physicians which warrants me in promising to the afflicted who may place themselves under my care a speedy and permanent cure Private diseases are the greatest enemies to health as they are the first cause of consumption scrofula and many other diseases and should be a terror to the human family A permanent cure is [illegible] majority of cases falling into the hands of [illegible] persons who not only fail to cure the disease but ruin the constitution filling the system with mercury which with the disease hastens the sufferer into a rapid consumption But should the disease and the treatment not cause death speedily and the victim marries the disease is entailed upon the children who are born with feeble constitutions and the current of life corrupted by a virus which betrays itself in scrofula tetter, ulcers eruptions and other affections of the skin, eyes throat and lungs entailing upon them a brief existence of suffering and consigning them to an early grave

Self abuse is another formidable enemy to health for nothing else in the dread catalogue of human diseases causes so destructive a drain upon the system drawing its thousands of victims through a few years of suffering down to an untimely grave It destroys the nervous system rapidly wastes away the energies of life, causes mental derangement prevents the proper development of the system disqualifies for marriage, society business and all earthly happiness, and leaves the sufferer wrecked in body and mind predisposed to consumption and a train of evils more to be dreaded than death itself With the fullest confidence I assure the unfortunate victims of self abuse that a permanent and speedy cure can be effected and with the abandonment of ruinous practices my patients can be restored to robust vigorous health

Irregularities and all diseases of males and females treated on principles established by fifteen years of practice and sanctioned by thousands of the most remarkable cures Medicines with full directions sent to any part of the State Oregon and Washington Territory by patients communicating their symptoms by letter night followed by involuntary discharges, have all disappeared and in fact in two months after having consulted the doctor I felt as if inspired by a new life—that life which but a short time ago I contemplated to end by my own hand With the view to guard the unfortunate from falling into the snares of incompetent quacks I deem it my duty to offer this testimony to the merit and skill of Dr. Czapkay, and recommend Dr. C. to all who may stand in need of medical advice being assured by my own experience, that once under his care a radical and permanent cure will be effected.

All business correspondence strictly confidential Address DR. L. J. CZAPKAY Medical Institute Sacramento street below Montgomery opposite the Pacific Mail Steamship Co's Office San Francisco

[L. S.] JOHN MIDDLETON, Notary Public,

MARYSVILLE, June 3d, 1855

DR. L. J. CZAPKAY San Francisco—Sir I have used the last of your medicine and do not think I shall need any more as I feel very well except that I have not entirely got my strength yet but soon will with the appetite I have. It is just three weeks you may recollect, since I called at your institute with my constitution as I thought, broken entirely and never thought you would be able to cure me perfectly but thought you might be able to do a little [illegible] pains in my back and head and strengthen my nerves so that I would not get excited and tremble at everything Now that you know what I expected you may judge of my satisfaction at my complete recovery from those symptoms and the removal of those sores and blotches from my skin and the ulcers from my throat and the entire stoppage of those causes which you said were principally the cause of my sickness I can hardly tell you which is the greatest my joy or my surprise for except not having fully got my strength I feel as well as any man can feel

Enclosed I send you twenty dollars over your charge and think myself happily cured If you think anybody will be benefited you may put this letter in the newspapers I become gratefully yours, THOMAS HAYDEN

Thankfulness is the incentive to gratitude.

CERTIFICATE.—Prompted by an honest desire of my heart, I wish to lay before the public a case which deserves a commendation not alone on account of scientific skill, but that of humanity also About two years ago I suddenly, and from [illegible] was seized with a fit of epilepsy, which owing to my inability to meet the expenses consequent upon a thorough medical treatment and the discouragement which I met with on attempting it, soon became [illegible] to defy the skill of any physician I was frequently while in pursuit of my calling, thrown down [illegible] and without the slightest warning and although insensible to the agonies I yet despised the miseries [illegible] learned to look upon those who would render assistance or shelter me from danger as [illegible] prolong the existence of my miseries, While in this state and having previous to my affliction tasted the sweets of [illegible] was induced to attempt seeking [illegible] recommendation, called upon Dr. L. J. Czapkay [illegible] my circumstances, and inability [illegible] regardless [illegible] my case, and with [illegible] restored to perfect health [illegible] which I enjoy at present [illegible] my indebtedness, I consider it [illegible] to make the case public, in order that [illegible] medical assistance may find a physician [illegible] confidence can be placed
